

Mary Beth Arcidiacono, LMSW

Mrs. Arcidiacono is a ChildTrauma Fellow with expertise in the areas of social work, traumatology and traumatic loss and grief.

Mrs. Arcidiacono grew up in Reisterstown, Maryland and later Dallas, Texas. She completed her undergraduate studies at Southern Methodist University in Psychology and Women's Studies and her Masters degree in Social Work at the University of Houston with a concentration in children and family.

Mrs. Arcidiacono has developed programs for families and individuals experiencing grief/traumatic loss. She is working to create community integration programs and materials for helping groups deal with traumatic loss including churches, schools, teachers, communities and businesses. She also works as an advocate for children, young adults and their families dealing with issues as a result of a Traumatic Brain Injury.

She provides training and consultation on grief and traumatic loss program development, facilitates support groups and organizes public awareness efforts.
